Certification Partners Renews Contract for Delivery of CIW exams with Pearson VUE

BLOOMINGTON, Minn., July 23, 2009 — Pearson VUE, the computer-based testing business of Pearson, announced that it has renewed a long-term agreement with Certification Partners to continue delivery of the CIW (Certified Internet Web Professional) program. CIW examinations will continue to be available throughout the worldwide Pearson VUE® Authorized Test Center network.

The CIW program teaches today's Web technologies, focusing on Web design, Web development, database design, and security. Over 130,000 individuals around the world have become CIW certified. CIW's Foundations certification verifies that individuals are ready to begin working in today's digital workplace and embark on a life-long learning path in the IT profession. Additional certifications include Master Designer, Database Design Specialist and Security Essentials.

"We look forward to continuing our relationship with Pearson VUE" said James Stanger, President of Certification Partners and Chief Certification Architect for the CIW program. "The customer service they have provided CIW has been superior. We know that when candidates test within the Pearson VUE network, they have a quality experience."

"Pearson VUE has built a strong relationship with the CIW program over the last eight years," said Robert Whelan, president and chief executive officer of Pearson VUE. "We are confident that Pearson VUE's global test center network and innovative technology will continue to support the growth of CIW certifications."
